Eng. Mohamed Abdel Aziz

Eng. Mohamed Abdel Aziz is the CEO of the Egyptian Gas Regulatory Authority.

Nominated by Eng. Tarek El Molla, Minister of Petroleum and Mineral Resources, Eng. Mohamed Abdel Aziz was appointed by a decree issued by Egypt's Prime Minister Mostafa Madbouly to succeed to Eng. Karem Mahmoud, whose term of office ended last February.

Eng. Mohamed Abdelaziz graduated from the Faculty of Engineering, Ain Shams University in 1985.
He held several important positions during his career within Enppi Petroleum over many years, working as an engineer on projects until he became assistant to the company's president. In 2017, he was appointed president of Gascool, where he succeeded in managing the company's largest project ever, which is the New Administrative Capital project.
He was then appointed Undersecretary of the Ministry of Petroleum for Projects before returning to his previous position as president of Enppi Petroleum.
